Magoon Says Ellis's Were to Get $75,000.

SUMNER DENIES TRUTH OF STORY

Attorney Asks Questions Concerning a Conversation in Humphreys' Office.

The examination into the sanity of John K. Sumner went over yesterday for a day owing to Judge De Bolt's summons to sit on the Supreme Court. Sumner was still on the stand at the close of the hearing yesterday noon. His answers were rather slow, and often ambiguous and he appeared rather confused over the lease and the option of the Oahu Railway Co. on the harbor land.

Somewhat of a sensation was caused by the intimation thrown out by J. A. Magoon in the examination that Sumner had agreed to give to the three Ellis children $25,000 apiece from the proceeds of the sale. The question was put to Sumner while he was on the stand and the statement brought forth a vigorous denial from the old man.

"Did you not have a conversation with Willie Ellis over the disposal of the $100,000 you were to get?" asked Mr. Magoon.

"I didn't know I was to get it, the whole thing was tied up in a law suit," was the reply.

"Did you not have a conversation in Mr. Humphreys' office at the corner of King and Bethel streets, at which Ellis was present and you agreed to make a distribution of the $100,000?"

"Who said that?"

"I am asking, did you never have such a conversation?"

"No, I didn't want them to come to me like that."

"Didn't you agree to give Willie, Johnnie and Victoria each $25,000 of the $100,000 you were to get?"

The question was objected to and the objection sustained but Sumner answered:

"No" anyway.

"What did you expect to do with the $100,000?"

"I don't know, there is a law suit which has to be ended."

"Well as soon as the law suit is ended?"

The witness replied that he intended to put the money in his own pocket.

The question of the note to C. P. Colburn for $300 for which it is alleged Sumner agreed to pay $450 in six months was gone into extensively.

Sumner admitted that he had borrowed $300 from some one and it might have been from Colburn. Sumner testified that he was to get $5500 annually from the Dillingham lease of the harbor land, and that he had intended to lease but half of the property. The $100,000 he said was for the 99 years' rental.

MINOR CANNOT MAKE CONTRACT.

In the case of C. H. Judd et al. vs. Wong Tai, action for damages by reason of the destruction of a horse and buggy driven over the Pali by the plaintiff, Judge Robinson reversed the decree of Judge Dickey who had awarded $300 damages. Judge Robinson held that there can be no recovery against any infant, it being shown that defendant was under twenty-one years of age.
